unique focus on the relation between artistic research and the philosophy of gilles deleuze aberrant nuptials explores the diversity and richness of the interactions between artistic research and deleuze studies aberrant nuptials is the expression gilles deleuze uses to refer to productive encounters between systems characterised by fundamental difference more than imitation representation or reproduction these encounters foster creative flows of energy generating new material configurations and intensive experiences within different understandings of artistic research the contributors to this book architects composers film makers painters performers philosophers sculptors and writers map current practices at the intersection between music art and philosophy contributing to an expansion of horizons and methodologies written by established deleuze scholars who have been working on interferences between art and philosophy and by musicians and artists who have been reflecting delezian and post delezian discourses in their artworks this volume reflects the current relevance of artistic research and deleuze studies for the arts a history of the evolving field of african art this book examines the invention and development of african art as an art historical category it starts with a simple question what do we mean when we talk about african art by confronting the historically shifting answers to this question peter probst identifies african art as a conceptual vessel that manifests wider societal transformations what is african art covers three key stages in the field s history starting with the late nineteenth through the mid twentieth centuries the book first discusses the colonial formation of the field by focusing on the role of museums collectors and photography in disseminating visual cultures as relations of power it then explores the remaking of the field at the dawn of african independence with the shift toward contemporary art and the rise of black atlantic studies in the 1970s and 1980s finally it examines the post and decolonial reconfiguration of the field driven by questions of representation repair and restitution kinetic art not only includes movement but often depends on it to produce an intended effect and therefore fully realize its nature as art it can take a multiplicity of forms and include a wide range of motion from motorized and electrically driven movement to motion as the result of wind light or other sources of energy kinetic art emerged throughout the twentieth century and had its major developments in the 1950s and 1960s professionals responsible for conserving contemporary art are in the midst of rethinking the concept of authenticity and solving the dichotomy often felt between original materials and functionality of the work of art the contrast is especially acute with kinetic art when a compromise between the two often seems impossible also to be considered are issues of technological obsolescence and the fact that an artist's chosen technology often carries with it strong sociological and historical information and meanings
